Launching a new magazine can be fraught with unimaginable problems. But that wasn't our experience dealing with the crew at Morrison Media. Our new product - Residential Developer Magazine - sets a new standard in design and production quality. It has been immediately embraced by our intended audience and looks like having a profound and long lasting impact in the marketplace.

Much of that owes itself to the quality of advice, the skills, and the almost seamless efficiency of the Morrison Media team, who provided us with the full suite of design and production services, through to helping out with advice on distribution and logistics.

We are absolutely delighted with the result - just couldn't be happier.
